Election First Monday in August, 1890.

ELECTIONS.

State elections were held yesterday in New York, Virginia, Ohio, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Iowa, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Missouri.

[Special Dispatch to THE CLIMAX.]
CINCINNATI, Nov. 5th, 7 P. M.—Virginia looks Democratic. Ohio is doubtful. Iowa and Pennsylvania Republican and New York probably so. New Jersey, Maryland and Mississippi Democratic, Republican majority reduced in Nebraska. Massachusetts Republican by decreased majority.

ENQUIRER.
The Montana election has been decided Democratic.

President Harrison has issued a proclamation taking the two Dakotas into the Union as States.

Gen. C. M. Clay made a speech at the Court-house, Monday, in the interest of the farmers. For want of space we cannot produce it.

Governor Buckner has refused to return the soldiers to Harlan county. Probably he thinks that the $2,000 expense to the State of the last campaign was too poorly rewarded to admit of further experiments. The people up there will settle the matter among themselves.

The Lexington Leader suggests Hon. Curtis F. Burnam as the first test representative Madison county could send to the Constitutional Convention. That Maj. Burnam would make an able member of the Convention no one can deny, but it occurs to us that the Leader does not manage its own county any too well.

Col. John O. Hodges and Mr. Harry T. Groom will shortly begin the publication in Lexington of The Kentucky Real Estate Register, devoted to real estate and the development of the mining, milling and manufacturing interests of the State. It will doubtless be a success.

A BOOM EDITION.

The Lexington Transcript of the 20th ult., was the largest and finest newspaper ever issued in Central Kentucky. It consists of 34 pages, of 6 columns each, or 144 columns. The front page was adorned with a wheel of ten spokes, representing Lexington as the hub, the spokes being the railroads, the tire embracing the whole Bluegrass Region. Every fine house and numbers of the prominent men are pictured in the edition, and the history of the city from its foundation is written in glowing style. Copies will of course be sent broadcast over the land to attract emigration.

Much time, hard work and cash were necessary to produce such an edition. Editor Caldwell has won the belt.

THE THREE AMERICAS IN LOUISVILLE.

The delegates to the International Congress of the Three Americas reached Louisville Friday evening on their tour of the United States. They were received by a delegation of citizens, amid the roar of cannons and the martial music of bands, and escorted to the Galt House by the Louisville Legion, thousands of people cheering them along the way.

Many prominent Kentuckians met them among the number being Gov. James B. McCreary, who was present by special request of Secretary of State James G. Blaine. The Governor was the originator of the bill authorizing the International Congress, and it was eminently proper that he should meet the delegates.

A reception was given at the Board of Trade Rooms. Hon. Henry Watterson delivered the address of welcome in Spanish, and Governor McCreary made the following speech:

I am glad to join in the hearty welcome that has been extended to the members of the International American Conference. Our brother Americans will find no State whose people will more heartily appreciate their visit or give them a more cordial greeting than the people of Kentucky.

The grand purpose of the present time is the improvement of the commercial and social relations of about one hundred and twenty millions of people, who occupy one-fourth of the habitable globe and control an area three times the size of Europe. No greater or graver subject now confronts American people, and its vast and varied and wonderful possibilities can hardly be estimated.

A conference of the Nations of North, South and Central America marks the beginning of a movement which may not attain its full fruition for many years, but which, I believe now, points the way to a splendid future that will bring commercial as well as political independence and finally make America in the broad sense the dominant power of the world.

Sixty-six years ago a President of the United States of America, by his announcement of a wise and patriotic doctrine known in history as the "Monroe Doctrine," opened the way for a closer affiliation of the sister Nations of the three Americas and for a more thorough identification of their plans and purposes, and about the same time the great and gifted, tried and true patriot and statesman, Henry Clay, of Kentucky, advocated more intimate commercial and social relations between the United States and the other nations comprising the American continent.

Other Presidents and other statesmen in our Republics and in the Empires of Central and South America have spoken with enthusiasm on this subject, but no enactment was ever made by our Congress, and no bill was ever introduced and passed until the year 1888 providing for a practical business conference in our country of representatives from the independent nations of North, South and Central America to consider questions relative to the improvement of their business intercourse, and to encourage their reciprocal commercial relations.

HON. CURTIS F. BURNAM.

When the time arrives for the selection of delegates to frame a new Constitution for Kentucky, the people of the grand old county of Madison will do well to remember they have no one of either political party within her borders better qualified to represent them than the covenanted than Hon. Curtis F. Burnam.

A lawyer of distinguished ability; a graduate of Yale College, whose scholastic attainments are second to none in the Commonwealth; a gentleman by nature and education; a man of broad views and enlightened statesmanship; genial and warm-hearted in his intercourse with his fellow-man, and of true nobility of character, he is peculiarly fitted to represent the people among whom his life has been spent in the important work of constructing the proposed new constitution. In the choice of delegates to frame a work of so great importance, the best talent should be secured without reference to existing political parties, and the people of Madison could not do better than to tender the position to Major Burnam, without opposition. By doing so, they would not only honor themselves, but bestow a graceful compliment upon one of their most distinguished sons—Lexington Leader.

EQUAL RIGHTS ASSOCIATION.

The men and women of Madison county and Richmond are earnestly requested to present at a meeting to reorganize the Madison County Equal Rights Association, to be held in the Court-house, Thursday, Nov. 7th at 3 o'clock P. M. All interested in the equality of men and women before the law, are especially invited to attend and lend their help to this organization.

Respectfully,

MARY B. CLAY.

MRS. JAMES BENNETT,

Vice-President and Executive Committee of the National Association.

MONTHLY CROP REPORT.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF AGRICULTURE, HORTICULTURE AND STATISTICS, FRANKFORT, KY., Nov. 1, 1889.

In my report of October 10, 1889, I gave the general condition of all the Kentucky crops, the most of which had been gathered, and were safe from ordinary disaster. WHEAT. The fall seedling of wheat began September 10th and progressed with out interruption until completed. This season has been remarkably favorable for the preparation of the seed bed, the soil being well broken and thoroughly pulverized. Seeding was delayed in some sections for want of moisture. On the 21st of October we had a good general rain, and the wheat is now all up and never looked more favorable. The acreage for 1889 is about 10 per cent. increase over 1888. The only hindrance has been the extraordinary amount of weeds and filth on the ground, which has compelled many farmers to broadcast instead of drilling.

TOBACCO.

This crop is now safely housed, and is free from future danger by reason of weather conditions.

In the Dark tobacco sections of the State careful estimation place the damage by frost on the hill at 82 per cent., with considerable damage from freezing.

In the Burley counties the damage from frost was comparatively light, not exceeding 2 per cent. The reason of this difference is in the fact that the Burley matured earlier and most of it had been harvested.

We have been unable to get in the percentage by barn freezing, in either section of the State, but all tobacco that was green and in open barns at the time of the freeze, is more or less injured. From careful inquiry the average yield of tobacco per acre, in the State in '89, was 775 lbs.

The acreage of Burley tobacco is about ten per cent. more than the acreage of Dark; that is, the Burley acreage is about 681 per cent. of the '88 acreage and the Dark about 50 per cent. of that of '88, making a total aggregate in '89 of 62,500-100 per cent. of the '88 acreage.

From our correspondents we gather the following as to the yield, per acre, of the crops mentioned:

—What is the maximum temperature?

—What is the hottest weather ever known in the United States? The question is answered in the May bulletin of the Kentucky statistical weather service. The highest temperature recorded by the United States Signal Service was at Phoenix and Fort McDowell, Ariz., in June, 1888. The thermometer marked 119 degrees. However, unskillful observers report temperatures as high as 128 and 122 degrees at Mammoth Tank and Humboldt, Cal. The coldest weather recorded by the service was 69 degrees below zero, at Poplar River, Mo. But this is a winter record, and with West Siberia, the coldest inhabited spot on the globe. The thermometer there has been as low as 90 degrees below zero. In view of these figures, let us complain of a paltry 90 degrees above zero.—Louisville Post.

—Each of the thousand workmen employed on the cruiser Charleston at the time she was built contributed a ten-cent piece to enrich the metal of which the vessel's bell was made.

—One fact

is worth a column of rhetoric, said an American statesman. It is a fact, established by the testimony of people, that Hood's Sarsaparilla does cure scrofula, salt rheum and other diseases or afflictions arising from impure state or low condition of the blood. It also overcomes that tired feeling, creates a good appetite, and gives strength to every part of the system. Try it.

—In conclusion I desire to say that the educational effect of the International Conference will be immense. The people of the respective countries represented will become better acquainted through the press reports sent out, and the reports made by the delegates. Our people will better appreciate the attractions and wealth and progress and development of the countries represented in the conference, while the visiting delegates will know from personal observation of the resources and attractions of our country and understand how heartily glad we are to have them with us, and what a hearty welcome awaits them in every part of the country.

—The grand purpose of the present time is the improvement of the commercial and social relations of about one hundred and twenty millions of people, who occupy one-fourth of the country; and that in these times full of the stimulus of new hopes and glittering with the effulgence of new ideas and throbbing with the heart beats of new progress the people of our Republic are ready to co-operate with them and those they represent in every movement which seeks to improve commerce, benefit humanity, enlarge liberty or promote Republics.

Great enthusiasm prevailed, and the Governor's speech was pronounced an able one.

Having visited the principal objects of interest, including the numerous stock farms near the city, the entire party went to Mammoth Cave. They expressed themselves as delighted with the Falls City and its people.

They reached Lexington Monday, and having seen everything of interest, including many fast horses, left for Cincinnati.

The object of the International Congress of delegates, representing Mexico, Central America and the Republics of South America, is to cultivate and improve the mercantile relations between those countries and the United States.

The greater part of the trade of those countries now goes to Europe. That ought not to be.

The United States needs the products of those countries, and in turn they need the products of this country. But the high tariff imposed by this country, it seems to us, will stand in the way.

The congress of delegates may serve to point out the evil of the high tariff, and do much toward creating a sentiment against it.

—HON. JOHN C. CHENAULT.

When the time arrives for the selection of delegates to frame a new Constitution for Kentucky, the people of the grand old county of Madison will do well to remember they have no one of either political party within her borders better qualified to represent them than the covenanted than Hon. Curtis F. Burnam.

A lawyer of distinguished ability; a graduate of Yale College, whose scholastic attainments are second to none in the Commonwealth; a gentleman by nature and education; a man of broad views and enlightened statesmanship; genial and warm-hearted in his intercourse with his fellow-man, and of true nobility of character, he is peculiarly fitted to represent the people among whom his life has been spent in the important work of constructing the proposed new constitution. In the choice of delegates to frame a work of so great importance, the best talent should be secured without reference to existing political parties, and the people of Madison could not do better than to tender the position to Major Burnam, without opposition. By doing so, they would not only honor themselves, but bestow a graceful compliment upon one of their most distinguished sons—Lexington Leader.

ON THE YUKON.

Terrible Experience of Gold Hunters in Alaska.

Made Blind and Insane by Flies and Mosquitoes,

One Man Dies Down and Begs His Companions to Kill Him—They Leave Him Behind—The Next Day Another is Left to Die—The Two Survivors Finally Reach Civilization Almost Dead.

The New York Times thinks McKinley will be chosen speaker on a complimentary basis.

The following advice has been received from Chilkoot, Alaska, by steamer:

Small detachments of men have returned this fall from the Yukon. The second brought word that they passed a boat lying on the beach with no one to be found near it.

Two Returns.

A few days ago two men tothered down the mountain side to this place, whose emaciated faces and trembling limbs showed that they had survived an arduous winter in the bush and had lived through. One of them, J. W. Sperry, of Portland, Ore., is 50, with hair as white as snow. The other, D. C. Ross, came from Portland is 20 years younger, and this winter he saved Sperry from falling an unmarked grave in the valley of the Yukon.

Provisions Give Out.

Three weeks after starting on their homeward journey the men were entirely exhausted and they became so weak that they could not pull their boat which they finally abandoned. They took to the hills in search of game. On the first day they had eaten quickly eaten by the men, who were now ravenous, and wild berries became their only means of subsistence. Their trail led them into a thicket of quakes and trees that lit upon them in swarms. Their faces and hands soon became raw and bleeding sore.

Lost Behind to Die.

In their weakened condition Ingram and his companion, who was also of the party, were unable to fight off the pests, which preyed upon their eyelids until they became so inflamed that they lost all power to open them and were forced to close them.

The dread of death by starvation and fear of being hopelessly lost in that strange country soon cast upon the mind of the two men and Ingram finally begged his companion to shoot him. Finally he lay down, refusing to move and when his companions saw he was about to die, left him, and started dragging him along. The next day Young succumbed, a victim to starvation and the torments of the pests which swarmed about them day and night. He left him lying upon the ground to die.

Assisted by Indians.

Another day brought them to some dried salmon, caught by the Indians for whom they had to work hard to remove their stink to the boat, and soon a party of Indians came along from whom they obtained food enough to enable them to reach the first white settlement, Fort Yukon, Alaska.

On the second day, however, they were again eaten by the men, who were now ravenous, and wild berries became their only means of subsistence.

Their trail led them into a thicket of quakes and trees that lit upon them in swarms. Their faces and hands soon became raw and bleeding sore.

After a few days, however, they were able to find a place where there was no more flies or mosquitoes.

New York, Nov. 1.—Inventor Edison has completed a phonographic clock which, instead of ringing out the number of hours, will announce the time of day in stentorian tones. It will also play a variety of music for half an hour.

As a novelty, it is certain to take with the public. It will prove, also, a very good once clock, but as an ornament in the parlor, it is a serious waste of money. It will not even save a cent, for the cost of the materials and parts, with the exception of a government telegraph in connection with the post office service.

New York, Nov. 1.—With reference to the new schedule of rates for telegraphic messages, suggested by Mr. George Green, Wannamaker, Dr. D. Norvin Green, president of the Western Union Telegraph company, says:

"A rate fixed by the postmaster general fixes the rates. This law provides that whenever such a commission as the one you mention is made, the government will purchase the value of any telegraphic plant it can be purchased by the government with congressional authority."

The law, however, does not fix a maximum rate, and the postmaster general may fix a rate higher than the one proposed.

New York, Nov. 1.—With reference to the new schedule of rates for telegraphic messages, suggested by Mr. George Green, Wannamaker, Dr. D. Norvin Green, president of the Western Union Telegraph company, says:

"A rate fixed by the postmaster general fixes the rates. This law provides that whenever such a commission as the one you mention is made, the government will purchase the value of any telegraphic plant it can be purchased by the government with congressional authority."

The law, however, does not fix a maximum rate, and the postmaster general may fix a rate higher than the one proposed.

Two companies of infantry and a detachment of 150 police have been ordered to Limerick to assist in extensive evictions about to be undertaken to them.

New York, Nov. 1.—Inventor Edison has completed a phonographic clock which, instead of ringing out the number of hours, will announce the time of day in stentorian tones. It will also play a variety of music for half an hour.

As a novelty, it is certain to take with the public. It will prove, also, a very good once clock, but as an ornament in the parlor, it is a serious waste of money. It will not even save a cent, for the cost of the materials and parts, with the exception of a government telegraph in connection with the post office service.
